

Key Term Crossword

Across

1. The practice of sentencing offenders to prison, allowing them to serve a short time, and then granting them probation without their prior knowledge.

8. A perspective that considers recidivism to be a consequence, in part, of the negative labels applied to offenders.

9. The conditional release of a prison inmate who has served part of a sentence and who remains under the court's control.

13. The suspension of all or part of a sentence subject to certain conditions and supervision in the community.

14. Continuing to break the criminal law and returning to the criminal justice system after being processed for past offenses.

15. A form of supervision that requires frequent meetings between the client and probation officer.

16. Sentencing alternatives that are more strict than regular probation but less severe than prison.

Down

2. A form of probation supervision that is contracted to for-profit private agencies by the state.

3. The report prepared by a probation officer to assist a judge in sentencing; also called a presentence report.

4. A form of corrections in which criminal offenders are managed in the community instead of in correctional facilities.

5. When criminal justice programs pull more clients into the system than would otherwise be involved without the program.

6. Time deducted from an inmate's sentence for doing something special or extra, such as getting a GED.

7. A personal status that overwhelms all others.

10. Punishment that is considered to be deserved.

11. A compromise reached by the defendant, the defendant's attorney, and the prosecutor in which the defendant agrees to plead guilty or no contest in return for a reduction of the charges' severity, dismissal of some charges, further information about the offense or about others involved in it, or the prosecutor's agreement to recommend a desired sentence.

12. The time deducted from an inmate's prison sentence for good behavior.