

abstract: A capsule version of a research report that briefly describes the research question or hypothesis, data and methods, and the major findings or results.

free writing: An exercise to overcome the difficulty in beginning to write by quickly recording thoughts, without regard to grammar and punctuation or reference to notes, data, books, and other information.

peer review: A system in which researchers' reports are evaluated by fellow academics and researchers.